QUESTIONED AS TO AUTHORITY

Gen. Funston Reprimanded for Allowing Troops to Cross Border.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, March 10.—General Hugh D. Scott, chief of staff of the army, today telegraphed General Funston, in charge of the American troops on the border, asking him where he got the authority to allow troops to cross the border in pursuit of the Mexicans who shot up Columbus, New Mexico, on Thursday.

General Funston replied at once to Gen. Scott's telegram, stating that so far he is without official information of how the American forces came to go across the border. He said he had called upon Colonel Slocum for a full report and as quickly as he got it he would forward it to the war department.

ROOSEVELT WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE

In a Lengthy Statement Tells Reasons
For Not Wanting His Name to Be Used in Primaries

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has cabled to the Massachusetts delegation saying that he would not permit the using of his name in the primaries. His reasons are further outlined as follows: "I am deeply sensible of the honor conferred on me and of the good will shown by the gentlemen who have announced themselves delegates to be elected in my interest in the Massachusetts presidential primary. Nevertheless, I must request, and I now do request and insist, that my name be not brought into the Massachusetts primary, and I emphatically decline to be a candidate in the primaries of that or any other state. Months ago I formally notified the authorities of Nebraska, Minnesota and Michigan to this effect. I do not wish the nomination. I am not the least interested in the political fortunes, either of myself or any other man. I am interested in awakening my fellow countrymen to the need of facing unpleasant facts. I am interested in the triumph of the great principles for which, with all my heart and soul, I have striven and shall continue to strive.

"I will not enter into any fight for the nomination, and I will not permit any factional fight to be made in my behalf. Indeed, I will go further and

Sunk by Mines.

(Special to The Herald)

Four officers and 11 men are missing and it is believed they have perished. The Coquette was a ship of 355 tons and was armed with one 12-pounder and five 6-pounders. She carried a crew of 60 men. The torpedo boat No. 11 was armed with two 3-inch guns and three 18-inch torpedo tubes. She carried a crew of 35 men. These are the first ships of the British navy sunk since the report that German ships had mined the North Sea.

MARRIED IN KITTERY

Boston Couple Steal Away
From City for a Quiet

On Thursday forenoon in the midst of the heavy snow storm, Louis Lichtenheim, a merchant of Boston and Mrs. Mary B. Linderman, also of the same city, arrived in this city on the 11:45 train. Immediately upon their arrival at the station they sought the services of a hackman to take them to Kittery where they desired to get married, having filed their intentions with Town Clerk Clarence M. Prince five days in advance. The cab driver said it would be about impossible to drive to Kittery on account of the deep snow, but the couple insisted on going. The driver was told to name his price and he did so—five dollars, which was immediately handed him. After a rough passage the office of Justice of the Peace Aaron B. Cole was reached and the couple went in and were married. They were unattended.

Both bore the mark of wealth and refinement. The bride was handsomely gowned and was laden with costly jewels. She had previously been married but was divorced. Her maiden name was Hammond. Following the ceremony the couple left on a wedding tour.

REPORT OF GEN. FUNSTON

Sends Message Concerning
Fight to War Department.

Washington, March 10.—In a message to the war department, General Funston, commanding the American troops on the border, reports that Villa's forces were defeated in an engagement five miles across the border from Columbus, N. M., late Thursday afternoon. Funston's report said that three troops of cavalry pursued Villa into Mexico and routed his forces. The text of the Funston message follows: "Slocum reports, 'I sent three troops under Tompkins across the border this morning. Pursued Villa five miles. He scattered after making final stand, which stopped the American advance. These troops returned to Columbus after three hours. Loss, one corporal.' (Signed) Funston."

APPROVES U. S. ACTION

Former President of Mexico
Comments Upon Villa Situation.

New York, March 10.—"It is up to the United States to exterminate Villa and his bandits. The rebel leader and his murdering brigands should be pursued without regard of consequences." Francisco De la Barra, former President of Mexico, thus approved today any action that the United States might take to destroy Villa for his attack on the little town of Columbus, N. M., even to the entering of Mexico by American troops to accomplish their purpose. "This country, in my opinion can expect no help from Gen. Carranza, but neither will there be any opposition from the Mexican government," he continued.

SPANISH SHIP ARRIVES

Transport Will Take Back
Bodies of Spanish Prisoners.

The Spanish transport Almirante Lobo arrived at New York Thursday from Cadiz, Spain, to load ammunition and other supplies purchased in the United States for the Spanish government.

In addition to a cargo the Lobo will also take back to Spain the bodies of 31 Spanish seamen who died in 1905 at the government stockade on Seavey's Island, where they were taken as prisoners after the battle of Santiago.

ALL TROOPS OUT OF MEXICO

Will Remain on U. S. Soil Until Permission is Granted Them to Recross
Border

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, March 10.—All U. S. troops long the Mexican border are now on American soil and will stay there until authority is granted them to re-enter Mexico in pursuit of Villa's band of murderers. General Funston (telegraphed the war department today urgently recommending that authority be granted him to cross into Mexico in pursuit of the rebel chief. So far as the war department is concerned it cannot act now without orders from the state department, officials stated. General Funston's request is expected to be taken up at today's cabinet meeting. The war department, upon investigation, found that previous treaties, granting Americans and Mexicans along the border the right to cross the line in pursuit of marauding bands have expired. The present case has thus become one of diplomatic procedure.

GALLINGER STATES HIS POSITION

Never Contended the Right of American Citizens in Traveling on Sea

Senator Gallinger objects to the reports credited to him regarding his position on the armed merchantman question and in a special dispatch to the Concord Monitor he has the following to say relative to an editorial in the Manchester Union: "I observe that you say that I voted on the question to warn Americans from exercising the right of taking passage on belligerent merchantmen armed solely for defense. I did nothing of the kind."

"I have never contended that an American citizen had not a legal right to travel on any merchant ship of a belligerent nation, whether she was armed or not armed, and you will find nothing to any utterance that I have made to justify your statement on that point."

His Real Position

"I hold to the view that we have a right under international law to furnish munitions of war to the belligerent nations. I hold to the view

ORDERS VILLA CAPTURED

President Wilson Decides on Decisive Step.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, March 10.—President Wilson today ordered General Villa, murderer of Americans, captured or killed at any cost. The U. S. army will undertake the task. An expedition, the makeup of which is now being considered by the war department will go into Mexico as soon as possible to get Villa. This action was decided upon after a two-hour session of the cabinet today. There was an unanimity of opinion. Villa's action in murdering and kidnapping Americans at will had enraged congress to such an extent that the President and his advisors decided that he must be removed as a menace to the peace of the country.

FREIGHT BAN IS LIFTED

Existing Embargoes on New Haven Road Off for Three Days.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, March 10.—In order to afford relief to industries in New England that are in urgent need of materials to avoid closing of plants, all existing embargoes issued by the New Haven railroad except upon soft coal, will be suspended from midnight today to March 11, after which time existing embargoes will be reinstated. The collection over the New Haven road continues very acute and the temporary lifting of embargoes is not an indication of easier conditions.

FIVE YEARS FOR EMBEZZLEMENT OF BANK FUNDS

Concord Bank Clerk Sent to Federal Prison at Atlanta After Investigation by Grand Jury

Concord, March 9.—The grand jury in the United States court here today reported an indictment against Ernest A. Bunker, bookkeeper at the National State Capital bank of this city, for misuse of the bank's funds.

The amount of money alleged to have been misappropriated was approximately $17,000. Bunker was given a sentence of five years at the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after a plea of guilty had been entered.

President J. E. Fernald of the bank stated that the institution would be in no way affected by the defalcation.

Mr. Bunker was represented by Alexander Marchie, who after the indictment was read, entered a plea of guilty in behalf of his client. Mr. Marchie then quit the court of the case.

He said that Mr. Bunker at no time was an extravagant liver and in the 29 years he had been employed in the bank he had been held in high esteem by his associates and by the people of the city.

The embezzlement said Mr. Marchie, was due to the fact that illness had existed in the family of his client and on the salary which he received he could not meet his obligations.

Mr. Marchie asked for leniency and gave as his reason for so doing that the money in the case had not been used for extravagance or speculation, but simply to meet the expenses of his daily life.

Mr. Bunker has led a very quiet life and his downfall came as a great surprise. He had been prominent in church, fraternal and musical circles.

KITTERY

The special roll call and observance of the 30th anniversary of the Christian Endeavor connected with the Second Christian church, held on Sunday evening, March 5, at 8 o'clock, was well attended and very interesting. During the hour, several letters of greeting from ex-pastors including Rev. Eugene E. Colburn of Yarmouth, Congregational church; Rev. J. G. Dutton of Westerly, R. I.; Rev. Joseph R. Laird of Newton, Pa.; Rev. C. J. Yeomans, Paterson, N. J. An original poem by Rev. H. Macy of Ogunquit, Me., and greetings from Mrs. Anna Nathan of Milliswick, Me., were read by the secretary of the Christian Endeavor. Several absent members also sent messages, including Mrs. A. W. Hobbins of Alton, Mass., a charter member. At present the membership is 110, including active, associate and clergy members. The society at the last session of Lockington Conference held at Amesbury, Mass., held the distinction of having raised the most money and had the largest membership of any society at the conference. A musical program consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. J. H. Laird; vocal solo, Albert L. Sprague; piano solo, Josephine Moulton, was given. The leaders of the meeting were A. H. Brackett, A. L. Sprague, and Hazel L. Waggott was pianist. The regular meeting of Kittery Grange, No. 385, will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Rev. Joseph R. Laird who has been passing a week in town with friends, left today for his home in Newton, Pa.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes any one look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink before breakfast each day a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, musty breath, sallow complexion, attacks of indigestion or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance, shortly.

OLDEST SAILOR IS DEAD

Isaiah Atkins Believed to Be Oldest Deep Sea Man in New England.

Gardner March 10.—Isaiah Atkins, 86, believed to be New England's oldest deep sea sailor, died on Thursday at the home of his son, Rufus. He was born in Turo, Nov. 28, 1829.

When a young man he ran away from home and shipped as a cabin boy on one of the ships engaged in the East Indian trade. After 27 years before he was retired and settled in Gardner, Mass. He came to Gardner five years ago.

GALLINGER STATES HIS POSITION

from New Hampshire indicates that the great majority of the "plain people" agree with me, and want to avoid war by all honorable means. Lawyers may quibble, editors may fulminate, but after all, the man who is clothed with the responsibility must vote his honest convictions, and assume the responsibility.

And Leaves it to Them

"That I did, and shall do, leaving the decision to the people of New Hampshire, who, I feel reasonably sure, will not be swayed from what they conceive to be correct views by attacks upon me personally, from whatever source they may come."

BOSTON LETTER

Professor Frederick Rasmussen at the New Hampshire State College testifying before Examiner George Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the railroad milk hearing declared that statistics show that New Hampshire farmers are now producing milk at a loss of half a cent a quart. He said that any further increase in the cost of delivering the milk would endanger the farming industry of New Hampshire because any increase in cost of transporting and marketing milk is always taken out of the unorganized farmers who are at the mercy of the milk dealers. W. H. Elliott of Madbury, N. H., declared that reckless driving of the Boston and Maine seems to have landed that road in the ditch and as usual in such cases, they plan to get the nearest farmers to bail them out. Several hits occurred at the hearing before counsel on the request for the Boston and Maine to prepare comparative estimates of the cost of transportation by the open car and the loaded car systems. Charles S. Pierce, counsel for the railroad, said he would see that some estimates were prepared, but insisted that they were not a part of the present hearing.

The first annual report of President Herman C. Bumps of Tufts College is most optimistic with regard to conditions at Tufts. President Bumps reports that the enrollment has increased 25 per cent during the past year and that the scholarship has been raised by the broadened entrance requirements. The total endowment of the college exclusive of educational buildings and grounds now equals $2,200,000. In a list of 200 of the leading colleges and universities there are 277 with an endowment inferior to that of Tufts college at present.

Indications are that there will not be any change for some years to come in the death penalty for murder in Massachusetts. Representative Hill sought in the house of representatives to substitute a bill abolishing capital punishment for the universal report of the committee on Judiciary, but was able to muster only 37 votes, while 91 members voted against the motion. The vote showed conclusively that the present penalty of death in the electric chair for first degree murder will probably stand for some time to come. Representative Hill sought to call after his first vote was lost but failed to secure a record vote.

John J. Martin, retiring president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, declared at a dinner of the association, that Governor Samuel W. McCall is one of the few popular men in politics and said that the reason that most politicians are not well liked is because they are not good business men. Men who have had no business experience, he said, are no longer qualified to meet the great problems of administering government. I regard it as a real duty of all business men to support a business-like government.

The importance of a "Well Regulated Day for the Baby" was told by Miss Grella Marby at the Baby Week demonstration here. The program she outlined as follows: 6 a. m., nursing; rest until 8.30; then after nursing the morning bath. After the 11 o'clock nursing, the baby should be taken out of doors for a few minutes, or at least treated to some invigorating fresh air. Rest from 11.30 to 1; with a nursing during that period. Another nursing at 4 and then to bed 6.30 p. m., waking at 10 p. m. for the final nursing if necessary.

Breakfast Bread.

NOT BREAD.—This makes delicious sandwiches for bread and butter, or for biscuits with coffee. A cupful of sugar, a cupful and a half of sweet milk, shelled pecans (chopped), an egg, four cupfuls flour sifted with four teaspoons baking powder. Bake in deep bread pan, filling it about half full. Then let it stand twenty minutes before baking an hour in a slow oven. Slice like thin bread. It is even better the second day than the first.

Sour Milk Oatmeal Cakes.—A cupful of white sugar, one-half cupful of butter, a cupful of oatmeal, a cupful of grated pecan, a cupful of chopped raisins, a teaspoonful of soda, seven tablespoonsful of sour milk, two cupfuls of flour. When you have creamed the butter and sugar stir soda in the sour milk and add to the mixture. Mix in the raisins and pecan and then add gradually the oatmeal and flour. Drop from a teaspoon on to buttered tins. Bake in a quick oven.

Baking Powder Biscuits.—Into a mixing bowl put two cupfuls sifted flour, a level teaspoonful salt, four level teaspoons baking powder. Mix and sift several times, rub in two level tablespoonsful butter or one of butter and one of lard (finely and mealy). Wet with a cupful of milk and mix into a stiff dough. Toss on to a well floured board and put out with rolling pin, using flour enough on board to prevent sticking. Bake in hot oven from ten to fifteen minutes.

Graham Bread.—A cupful scalded milk, a cupful lukewarm water, a yeast cake, four tablespoonsful molasses, two tablespoonsful lard, a teaspoonful salt, four cupfuls graham flour, a cupful bread flour. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm liquid, add molasses and lard and then the flour and salt. Knead thoroughly or use bread mixer, only keep dough soft. Let rise once, shape into loaves, let rise and bake an hour. Make two good sized loaves.

Eggless Corn Muffins.—Mix and sift a cupful of granulated cornmeal, one-half cupful of pastry flour (once sifted), one-fourth cupful of sugar, two tablespoonsful of baking powder (measured level) and one teaspoonful of salt; then add gradually, while stirring constantly, a cupful of milk. Beat one minute and add two tablespoonsful of melted butter. Bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

The First Bomb.

The bomb came into being during the troublous times in France toward the close of the eighteenth century. Its inventor was a French fanatic named Chevallier, who had conceived such an intense hatred of Napoleon that he determined to kill him.

Being employed at a government small arms factory, he had gained some knowledge of explosives, and with this knowledge he managed to construct a bomb out of a barrel, which he filled with a mixture of powder, bullets, broken glass and white arsenic.

Chevallier's idea was for the bomb to explode under Napoleon's carriage as it passed through the streets of Paris. A miscalculation, however, caused it to go off a few seconds too soon.

Had Chevallier succeeded in his object the whole history of Europe would of course have been changed.—Pearson's Weekly.

Getting Into a Scrape.

Many years ago the wild deer, that roamed through the forests of England used to dig holes in the earth with their forefeet. They pawed it out sometimes to the depth of several inches; sometimes a foot or more. These holes were called "scrapes" and travelers at dusk or night or those who were careless about their footing often tumbled into them. They were laughed at for their heedlessness when they came home covered with mud, and as this frequently occurred after they had been tumbled a bit they were said to have "got into a scrape." Some Cambridge students took up this expression, and thus it came to be applied to people who had got into difficulties of various sorts.

The Sun in Winter.

In winter we are 3,000,000 miles nearer the sun than in summer. Some may think that if this statement is true we ought to have warmer weather in winter than in summer, but it must be remembered that the heat we receive from the sun depends very much upon the direction of its rays. In summer the sun's rays are more vertical than in winter; hence the days are warmer.

GERMAN ATTEMPTS FAIL TO RECOVER LOST GROUND

Repeated Attacks on Territory Retaken by French on Wednesday, are Repulsed With Heavy Losses—Bethincourt Remains in Hands of Joffre's Forces

London, March 9.—As a result of the repulse of the Germans, who in repeated attacks tried to regain Bethincourt, northwest of Verdun, and to advance between Douaumont and Vaux, north of Verdun, the French line starting west of the Meuse in the Verdun battle now runs from Bethincourt, by Corbeaux wood and the northern part of Cunieres, to the upper end of Cote de L'Or. This brings it in advance of the first line of resistance, which was constituted by positions running from Mort Homme Hill to the south of Cunieres, and continuing along the curve in the right bank of the Meuse, south of Champneuville, through Lovemont, Douaumont, north of Verdun and Morancville, Blancey to Fresnes on the east of Verdun. Bethincourt is ten miles northwest of the fortress and lies just to the north of Dead Man's Hill, the dominating position on the Forges Brook heights from which the fire of French guns has been hampering German operations, not only west of the Meuse but by long range fire helping to break up attempted advances on the opposite side of the stream. Military observers express the belief that the Germans originally intended a frontal attack on Verdun, which was to be accompanied by two flank attacks one in the Voivre not meant to be pushed home and the other on the west bank of the Meuse which might develop into the main attack. Desiring, however, to justify a premature announcement of the capture of Douaumont the Crown Prince kept 200,000 men on the right bank of the river, against the advice of his generals, who insisted that they could be better employed on the other bank. Now that the Germans have begun the flank attack, the French critics say, it is too late by ten days. Evidently the French still are apprehensive of a stroke by the Germans in the Argonne region, where a drive south would threaten communication with Verdun, for the artillery is busy pounding German transport routes, notably in the eastern Argonne, close to the edge of the Verdun positions.

The first attack on Bethincourt made on Tuesday was preceded by six hours' terrific bombardment. Then the infantry came on from three sides, along the road from Germent to Bethincourt, from Forges Village and from the slopes of Hill No. 265. French officers estimate that the attacking forces were not fewer than 20,000. Fifteen different battalions were identified. All day long the Germans fought to gain a footing in the important village of Bethincourt, which lies in a hollow commanded by both sides. When night fell the last attacking column was thrown back by the French, who fought with great determination against hostile forces double their number. The position on Cote de L'Or was similar. The Germans were held in check as long as daylight lasted. However, sheltering themselves in ravines in Corbeaux wood, they managed to force a way up a narrow lane leading to Comieres wood, which stands on the top of the ridge linking Cote de L'Or and Dead Man's Hill, only to be driven out of the greater part of their conquest by a French counter-attack on Wednesday.

German Losses Are Heavy
The German losses in officers is particularly heavy, according to statements made by prisoners, and this fact is believed to be the explanation of the unexpected spectacle of German officers up to the rank of general, by orders of the Emperor, leading their men into action, instead of allowing them. This sight had not been witnessed, it is said, for many months. Wave after wave of densely packed masses dashed forward on Bethincourt, but the Frenchmen, having emerged from shelter as soon as the preliminary bombardment had ceased, directed such an effective fire from carefully placed machine guns, accompanied by fire from rifles and 75-millimetre guns, that after struggling boldly again and again, the assailants finally gave up and retired. Encouraged by their successful resistance, the Frenchmen went back to Corbeaux wood, which they had lost the day before. It was considered that the honors of the day rested with the French, but the situation remained undecided. Artillerymen on both sides are living up to the reputation already established for the battle of Verdun as the greatest artillery duel of the war. Many sections of the French front on Sunday and Monday last received an average of 100,000 shells. In twelve hours, whole woods were reduced to kindling material. The little river at Forges disappeared altogether, having been damped in half a dozen places, and thirty feet of the crest of Hill No. 213, near Forges, was blown away.

French Fire German Works
Paris, March 9.—The text of the official communication regarding the situation west of Verdun says:

"North of the Aisne destructive fires have been carried out against the enemy works on the plateau of Craonne and the environs of Paissy, north of Soissons."

"In the Argonne we concentrated our fire on the German organizations at Haute Shevauchee and the Chapey wood."

The Belgian official communication reads: "Minor artillery actions occurred at several points of the front. A violent engagement with bombs took place near the Forgemans' house."

British Busy with French Guns
London, March 9.—The British official statement on the campaign in the west issued last night, reads:

"Last night the enemy sprang a mine near the Ypres-Comines railroad, doing no damage. Our artillery bombarded that vicinity today."

"By exploding a small mine today eastward of Laventie we interrupted the enemy's mining. Near Guey there has been fighting with trench mortars during which we did considerable damage to the enemy's defenses. The enemy shelled our position in craters to the east of Vermelles. Elsewhere nothing occurred."

Sixteen Raiders Bomb Metz
Paris, March 9.—The French official statement says:

"One of our bombing groups, composed of sixteen aeroplanes, dropped 124 shells of all calibres on the Metz-Sablon station, where there were several trains. The projectiles struck well. A squadron of enemy aeroplanes gave chase to our machines, which returned to their base with the exception of one which was obliged to make a landing owing to motor trouble."

Zeppelin Casualty List Grows
London, March 9.—The War Office announces that five persons, previously reported injured in the recent air raid, have died. Total casualties in all areas attacked by the airships follow: Killed, nine men, four women and five children; injured, twenty-two men, twenty-two women and eight children.

Messages from Kent assert that one of the Zeppelins in Sunday's raid was damaged by anti-aircraft guns. One despatch says it is reported that an explosion took place on board the Zeppelin when it was hit, and this partially crippled it. A broken portion of a Zeppelin propeller was found in Kent.

Turk Defence Crumbling
Petrograd, via London, March 9.—Russian troops have captured the town of Riza (Tiflis) on the Black Sea, thirty-five miles east of Trebizond. This announcement is made in the official statement issued from general headquarters, which adds that the Russians have also occupied the town of Schina, north of Kermanshah in Persia.

The activity of Russian torpedo boats in the Black Sea against coast towns east of Trebizond is continuing with success. According to recent despatches from Sebastopol the Turkish coast defenses are crumbling before the intensity of the Russian bombardment. There is apparently a growing disposition on the part of the Turks along the Anatolian shore to surrender without fighting. In many cases according to reports received here, the Turkish population have sent out emissaries in boats to the Russian fleet, offering submission to Russia. Russian Russian cruisers continue to bombard Trebizond.

Rumors of Turkey's willingness to enter into peace negotiations with Russia are increasingly current here, but there is no official confirmation that Turkey has up to the present made actual overtures to the Russian Government.

40,000 Armenians in Erzerum Massacre
The Russians found only sixteen Armenians alive in Erzerum out of the usual Armenian population of 40,000 according to information received in Petrograd. "The Turkish inhabitants of Erzerum," the statement says, "stated that a few days before the capture of the fortress by the Russians all the Armenians in the town were driven out by the police in a westerly direction, where the Kurds, who had been forewarned, massacred all of them."

The official statement says: "Caucasian front: In the coastal district our troops continue to press the Turks closely. We captured the town of Riza on the seventh."

"Persian front: We have occupied the town of Schina fifty versts, twenty-five miles northward of Kermanshah."

NEW MARKET FOR AMERICAN COTTON

(Department of Commerce, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington.)

Washington, D. C., March 9.—There is a market for $11,000,000 worth of cotton goods annually in the Straits Settlements and the United States has a smaller share of the trade than any other competitor. For the last four years our sales in this quarter have amounted to only $2,000,000 annually. In a report entitled "Cotton Goods in the Straits Settlements," just issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, it is asserted that American manufacturers have either overlooked this market entirely or have failed to appreciate it because there has been available no first-hand information regarding it.

The chief obstacle to American trade in cotton goods," the report states, "and, as a matter of fact, in all lines, is the lack of an American importing firm in the Straits Settlements. It would not be true, however, to say that the British importing houses, which handle nearly all the business, are adverse to purchasing American merchandise, because many of them are actually importing a considerable quantity of goods from the United States, and an American traveler who recently spent some time in Singapore, made a thorough canvass of the market and succeeded in getting some very substantial orders asserting that when he could furnish the goods at competitive prices he could in most cases get the business."

The greater part of the report is taken up with careful descriptions of the kinds of cotton goods in demand in the Straits Settlements, although considerable space is given to an analysis of trade statistics. For the assistance of American manufacturers, Ralph M. Odell, the author of the report, collected a hundred samples of cotton goods actually in demand in the Straits Settlements.

"It will doubtless surprise many American manufacturers," concludes Mr. Odell, "to learn that the cotton-goods trade of the Straits Settlements is so large and that it exceeds in value the aggregate trade of the Red Sea district and East Africa, with which they are more or less familiar. It is true that we have not manufactured some of the important lines in this trade, but we do manufacture some of the lines, and our failure to secure a share of the trade appears to be due most of all to indifference and neglect. The market is well worth more attention and if properly studied will in a few years become an important outlet for American cotton goods."

The new bulletin is designated Special Agents Series No. 115 and is sold for the nominal sum of 10 cents by the District Offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. It contains 57 pages.

WILL HUGHES WANT TO CHANGE SEATS?

In spite of his repeated refusal to be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, there is a persistent rumor from many quarters that Justice Hughes stands forth and be the Republican standard-bearer. At this writing it is reported that Mr. Hughes, chairman of the Republican National Committee, favors Hughes. In the meantime Hughes sits on the Supreme Court bench wearing the look of one who is saying: Please let me alone. I walked into the Supreme Court room in the Capitol and seeing Hughes in his accustomed place, the third seat to the right of Chief Justice White, I wondered if Old Public Clamor (or is it the clamor of politics?) would finally get him to leave the least criticizable seat in the government for the one most criticized—Art Young in the March Metropolitan.

"BOBBY" RAIDS CANDY STORE

EATS MORE THAN A POUND OF HIS FAVORITE BRAND OF CHOCOLATES FROM GLASS DISH WITHOUT DESTROYING ANYTHING ELSE.

That animals like sweet things the same as human beings, is a well known fact, but a dog who will spend nearly his entire day in front of a candy store make friends with every little customer at the store in order to get his share of the purchase, and when the opportunity arises, hide in the store until after the proprietor has locked up for the night in order to have the place to himself, is unusual. But this was done last night by one Portsmouth dog and at last reports he was resting comfortably in his own home, full of good will and candy, and at peace with the whole world.

"Bobby," an Irish terrier and a fine bred little doggie, makes his home on State street, but for some time has been hanging out during the day in the doorway of the store of John Pearson at the corner of Sheafe and Penhallow streets. This stand, taken by the canine, nets him about one pound of candy a day from the children of the neighborhood. He is a great favorite with the little ones and none have the heart to refuse his appeals for the sweets as they leave the store with their purchases.

Last evening he had the place to himself for a couple of hours and while he didn't do in the line of putting away candy wasn't worth doing. In some manner Mr. Pearson failed to see Bobby when he was locking up for the night and this resulted in Bobby and the candy being on the inside of the store.

It has been the system of Mr. Pearson to fill all of the display dishes each night with fresh goods and one dish, containing a little more than a pound of a particular brand of sweet chocolate was a favorite of Bobby's. He climbed onto the window shelf, picked out the brand he wanted, and without breaking a dish or disturbing in any way any of the other candies, emptied the glass dish of all its contents. Late in the evening Mr. Pearson was informed by one of his neighbors that the dog had been locked in the store and started to investigate. Bobby was found asleep on the floor with a look of perfect contentment on his expressive face and on being awakened returned to his home full of peace, and

VILLA WOUNDED WHEN U. S. FORCE INVADES MEXICO

MEXICANS DRIVEN INTO MOUNTAINS BY AMERICAN CAVALRYMEN LED BY CAPTAIN WILLIAMS OF 7TH U. S. CAVALRY.

Columbus, N. M., March 9.—Under command of Captain George Williams, Adjutant of the 13th U. S. Cavalry, a large body of this command invaded Mexico late this afternoon after the raid made by Mexican bandits, and drove the Villa forces into the mountains, killing 19 men. Villa made his stand against the United States troops at a town 15 miles from the border and a stiff fight followed in which the Mexican leader was wounded and Lopez, his second in command, was killed. After the fighting the American force was withdrawn.

An appeal has been made by the commander of the American forces to Carranza to permit the invasion of Mexico to act against Villa. It has been learned that a second raid had been planned against the 7th U. S. Cavalry, acting as a border guard, near the town of Hecibita, Mexico, to the west of here.

Captain Williams was wounded in the action, but not seriously, and no private was killed. The troops here are looking to both the 7th and the 14th cavalry are making preparations to invade Mexico if word comes from Carranza granting their request.

GINGLES' JINGLES

THE ONLY WAY.
As we journey on the level, as we beat it for the hill, there will come a time to each of us that's bound to tax our will; the ascent will look so steep, that we shall want to back away, but instead we should assert our will and positively say, "I can make the grade, I know I can, but it will take some pluck; yet there's no one over made it on the take they call good luck!" that's a term applied to labor by the guy who doesn't know how the other fellow works and digs to make the business go. You will find success located on a high mountain range, on the topmost peak 'tis nestled—its position does not change; there's no trolley leading to it, neither is there any train, and there is no chance to reach it with the high-power aeroplane. There's but one course open to it—just one way to make the trip, that's to try and climb the mountain, keep a climbing though we slip; it is possible to get there, we should make our start today, spit, hard work and sticking to it, is what lends.

The old lady glowered at him and answered: "They're not so good. But where's the bad ones for the pigs?"—Answers.

Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Jenkins.

The sudden death of Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Jenkins was a distinct shock to the citizens of Portsmouth, and her departure from this life calls for more than passing notice. There are too few such women in New Hampshire, and her loss will be felt, not only in Portsmouth, but in various towns in this vicinity. She was the type of woman that carried joy and happiness wherever her presence was. She believed in living for others, and her work in the charities of Portsmouth carried with it that gentle touch and generosity of spirit that made her loved by all with whom she met. Clouds never surrounded or hung over the life of Mrs. Jenkins. She scattered them with her pleasant smiles and kind words.

As a member of the church, of the woman's department of the Y. M. C. A., and of the various historical societies, she was ever busy in furthering the work for good and for greater happiness and prosperity to the members of those organizations. Her home has always been an open door for everything that tended to benefit dear old Portsmouth. It can be said with due consideration that this noble woman gave her life for that which she loved most—the happiness and prosperity of her friends and her city. One cannot but feel a deal of satisfaction to receive her smile whenever in the presence of this beautiful and most noble woman. Her loss will be felt in many homes, and her departure will leave sadness in the hearts of thousands. Her memory and her life work in this community will live for years, and her character and ways of living will be an inspiration to thousands of friends to do their part in life's work, that may return in glory and satisfaction gathered from the work and life of this beloved daughter of Portsmouth. Every citizen of Portsmouth will mourn her death and wish for the greatest comfort for her distinguished husband, Dr. William O. Jenkins.

The Evil of Gossip.

An evangelist addressing a women's meeting a few days ago took up the subject of gossiping and endeavored to impress upon the minds of his hearers the evil of a practice that is altogether too common. He said the gossip has the ability to see things as they are not, and then to advertise what they think they see. "It is amazing," he said, "how much some people know about other people's affairs, especially the things that never really happen."

It is easy to judge from these few words the general trend of the minister's talk on this occasion, and all except persons addicted to gossip are aware that the warning he uttered is one that should be heeded.

There is nothing new or novel about gossiping. It is as old as the human race, and while there may be reason to fear that the vicious practice may never be wholly eliminated it is well that the evil should be pointed out and emphasized from time to time, to the end that people who indulge in gossip through thoughtlessness rather than maliciousness, as is the case with most of those who are guilty of the practice, may be brought to see the error of their way and to abandon at once and forever a habit that is harmful alike to those who engage in gossip and to the victims of their wagging tongues.

While some gossip is absolutely malicious, it is easy to believe that in most cases there is no intent to do harm. Many well-meaning persons have fallen into the habit of talking idly and carelessly about people they know, and often words are thoughtlessly dropped that cause needless pain and sorrow.

This minister's words to these women were timely. At this time, when women are striving so hard to make the world better, they might well give attention to the baneful habit of gossiping and endeavor to check a practice that is productive of harm only. And the practice is not confined to women. There are men, and too many of them, who are not as careful as they ought to be about what they say of others.

All should remember that the spoken word is like the sped arrow, something that cannot be recalled. An idle word is liable to work injury that can never be atoned for, and the thoughtful man and woman will be guarded in what they say of others. Many friendships have been severed and many a life has been blasted by the tongue of gossip. Far better is that charity which covereth a multitude of sins, and which all should exercise to the extent of their ability.

The people of Russia must realize very distinctly that their country is at war. Passenger traffic on the railroad from Petrograd to Moscow is to be stopped for a week to make way for freight and war traffic, and the Duma is being urged to prohibit the importation of luxuries. But the fact that such a step is demanded shows that not all of the people have been impoverished.

Eggs not 95 per cent good will hereafter be barred from interstate shipment. But why should 5 per cent of rottenness be tolerated in this important food staple?

YORK MAN AFTER OFFICE

J. Perley Putnam Wants the County Treasurer's Berth.

J. Perley Putnam of York will be a candidate for the office of county treasurer. Mr. Putnam made the declaration this week. This will be the second time Mr. Putnam has been a candidate, having been defeated by the present incumbent, Fred I. Luce, who has now served two terms.

J. Perley Putnam is well known throughout the county, and his former showing presages a victory this time. Up to the present there is no other candidate in the field; Mr. Luce having served two terms will hardly care for another.

The withdrawal of B. S. Woodward as a candidate for sheriff of the county, leaves Mr. Putnam the only York man asking for an office within the gift of the county alone. Unquestionably the fact that the two York men were out for a county office before helped to defeat them both.

HEARD AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

"We must not let the voters of the country overlook the fact that had the rates of duty provided by the Republican tariff law been in effect during the past two years, on the imports received into this country during that period, the revenues would have been sufficient to meet all of the running expenses of the government, notwithstanding Democratic extravagance, and there would have still been a balance left in the treasury." Thus spoke a Republican Pennsylvania representative. "It shows the difference between the policies of the two parties. The Republican party in times of profound peace has never found it necessary to levy direct taxes on the people. It has always been able to meet ordinary as well as extraordinary expenses by indirect taxation, which has largely been paid by the foreigner. With a depleted treasury and no improvement in sight the Democratic party is faced with the additional problems of taxation, most of which must fall directly on the backs of the people. If the Republican party were in power today with a protective tariff, there would be no necessity for this, neither would there be a war tax and many other burdens."

"The Republican campaign will go into the campaign of 1916, active, vigorous and the coming national convention at Chicago will elect a candidate who will meet with the support and approbation of the people," said an Illinois representative to a group of congressional friends. "All throughout the country there has arisen a great desire on the part of the people to rid the country for Democracy and what it stands for. Both the foreign and fiscal policies of the administration have greatly displeased the American people and they are ready to back the party which stands for progress and prosperity and which will uphold American honor in all portions of the world. The dilly-dallying and hesitating which has marked this administration in its foreign policy will cost it thousands of votes. The constant shifting of the yaws of the President on public questions has shaken the confidence of the people in his stability."

"There is at least an even chance that Oklahoma will swing into the republican column in the elections this fall, that we will gain two Republican congressmen from that state and that many gains will be made by the party in state officers," said a Middle West Republican congressman to a group of colleagues. "For some time Oklahoma has been heading towards Republicanism. The development of the state has brought in many new residents from the eastern states who are of our party faith. The Democrats, realizing they were slipping have been endeavoring to disfranchise the negro in that state, hoping to save their bacon, but they have made such a mess of it, which ended with the disgraceful row in the legislature a few days since, that Republican opinion in the state has been stirred by such tactics. It has hurt the Democrats and driven many voters to the ranks of the Republicans, and when November comes do not be surprised if Oklahoma leans up in the list of Republican states. Certainly the indications point that way, and at least two of the present Democratic congressmen are greatly alarmed over the outlook in their districts."

"Indiana is surely heading towards Republicanism. We will elect a governor, a United States senator, make a gain of several congressmen and carry the state for the national ticket. From present indications Congressman Adair will win the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket. He is the machine candidate and has the backing of Tom Taggart. Already his candidacy is opposed by the leading Democratic paper of the state, and there is much opposition in the party against him. All along the line Republican victory seems almost assured."

CURRENT OPINION

The future troubles of America will grow out of the construction and enforcement of an international contract—designated the Monroe doctrine—that American doctrine which prohibits any government of kings or emperors from establishing their representatives or their form of government upon the western hemisphere. The conflicts which will be waged against America will not arise during the present European war.

They will come upon us at the close of the European war, sustained by the combined enemies of all of the countries now engaged in the European conflict. The desire for the trade of South America by Europe, the desire for a new field of venture and the planting of colonies will bring about the demand on America to surrender her present position in support of the Monroe doctrine. Then will come the first severe conflict of arms. The European country defying us will bring its forces to South or Central America and establish them and call upon us to advance to the South American country to dislodge them.—By Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

"These were the words of a congressman from that state.

The New York Journal of Commerce published a special from Washington, which attempts to show a change of attitude among certain interests throughout the country on the subject of the tariff. "The old style demand for practically prohibitory protection is growing weaker in many sections," says the article, and in some quarters is disappearing. "It is doubtful if any such demand ever seriously existed. The American sentiment for protection is domestic industries, as represented in the legislation of the Republican party, has never been for absolute prohibition of imports."

A fair adjustment of duty rates which would give our producers an even break in their home market is what they have asked. The Republican party has always placed its chief reliance for revenue on the protective tariff—a tax paid chiefly by the foreigner and which is of general benefit to the country. Obviously the levying of extraordinary rates would result in the loss of this revenue to the extent that the rates were prohibitory, and Republican laws have been remarkably good revenue producers.

The Underwood law was characterized by its framers as a "competitive" measure. It is, to the limit, Under it, 74 per cent of our imports are coming in free and the average duty rate now hovers around eight per cent. As a revenue producer it is a failure, and the Democrats are now suggesting 57 varieties of taxation to bolster it up.

The change of attitude on the tariff where it exists is in the direction of the Republican protection idea. This change has been most marked in the South, which, if it could vote on the tariff today, would show a huge majority for the protective policy.

Secretary McAdoo asks bids for 1,200,000 pounds of bank note paper. Is there to be an issue of silver dollars with the flimsy note in balance in the general fund of the treasury to redeem them?

The Democratic board of general appraisers evidently does not believe in "art for art's sake," but for the sake of increased revenue. A marble mantle and a round temple of stone, to be set up in a garden, were imported. The collector of customs levied duty on them at 45 per cent as manufactures of marble, thereby proving his intelligence for appointment to the Fine Arts commission. The board of general appraisers sustained him. But the U. S. court of customs appeals dwelling beneath the classic shades of Washington reversed the decision of the board and permitted these works of art to come in at 15 per cent. The government will return the excess.

"Foreign relations taking first place" was a headline in the New York Journal of Commerce. The article following goes on to say that economic questions as political issues are being forced to the rear. The President said some time ago that the Republicans would have but one issue—the tariff. But he has changed his mind again, and given them another—the foreign Chancellor Day of Syracuse University suggests if our coast cities are successfully attacked it would be practicable for the whole population of the United States to take to the woods. "Where are those woods?" Democrats are asking.

Is the American Eagle getting too proud to scream?—New York Sun. Whether it has been made to look more like a dove or a parrot would be an interesting subject of debate.—Philadelphia Ledger. The universal opinion seems to be that it has joined the ranks of the Dodo.

Mr. Bryan while denouncing Mr. Wilson for having gone "joy-riding with the jinnies," insists that he has no personal differences with his former chief. We believe that sacred history tells of one who approached his victim asking, "Art thou in health, my brother?"

The recent disgraceful scenes in the Democratic legislature of Oklahoma are the logical result of President Wilson's pardon of two (Democratic) politicians who were convicted for enforcing the "grandfather clause" which the supreme court has declared invalid. When a man who is sworn as the President is to maintain the Constitution, will pardon, for partisan reasons, men who have violated the constitution, he passes the word to all the thugs to get busy.

We have always agreed with the utterances of George W. Perkins in matters political, but he surely strikes a responsive chord in our nature when he describes himself as believing in Republicanism "of the Abraham Lincoln, Thomas B. Reed, James C. Blaine, William McKinley brand. He flouting upon the present manner of conducting our foreign relations we are inclined to make our emphases upon the "James C. Blaine" portion of Mr. Perkins' words.

A sure-fire method of breaking into the headlines these days is for the multi-millionaire to give a dinner and invite a politician or two.

A Washington dispatch to the New York "Evening Post" asserts that the report on Mexico which has been sent to the senate "is by no means as full of dynamite for this administration as the Republicans had hoped." The dynamite, let us say, exists. It may be kept in cold storage of the files of the state department for a time. But it is bound to explode one of these days. Concealment of facts never yet helped an administration.

"The Congress," remarks the Indiana Times, "wants for action by a President backed by the people." This congress will never get it. But the next congress will be Republican, and the people will back both.

President Wilson's decision to run again created just about as much interest and enthusiasm as Vice President Marshall's similar announcement.

DISHONESTY NO LONGER CLEVER.

"You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time," said P. T. Barnum.

That used to be considered a very clever idea, and years ago it may have been well founded.

That idea, however, has died an ignominious death.

Advertising is now so much a part of every business that it cannot succeed unless it performs the legitimate function of imparting truthful and honest information.

A careful study of the advertising in this newspaper shows what the real purpose of advertising is.

It is interesting news. It is timely information. It renders a service to our readers. The circus idea of Barnum's day is dead. The idea of service has taken its place.

MEXICANS RAID RANCH HOUSES

Again Invade U. S. Soil But Do Small Damage.

(Special to The Herald)
El Paso, March 10.—Mexican raiders crossed the border early today in small bands and killed a number of ranch houses but did not murder any Americans. The Villa command has broken into small groups which are invading the United States at points between Columbus and El Paso. Practically all the ranches were deserted by the Americans who took their families to Columbus when news of the expected raid was given them by telephone. Reinforcements from El Paso have reached Victoria, N. M., which was reported Thursday in danger of attack. The first battalion is stationed at that point. The first battalion of the 7th Infantry has reinforced the 7th cavalry at Hachita, which was also reported in danger. Large bands of Mexicans were seen near that town today but they made no attempt to enter. The Americans wounded in yesterday's raid at Columbus were doing nicely today. No further deaths were reported. The total dead numbers 17.

WATERPOWER BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

Conservationists Are Beaten after Weeks of Debate—Military Authorities Urged Passage as Feature of Preparedness Program

Washington, March 9.—The Shields bill authorizing the Secretary of War to grant fifty year permits for the building of dams and waterpower plants on navigable streams, passed the Senate today. The vote was 45 to 22.

This is the first vote taken by the Senate on a general waterpower development measure in the eight years that the subject of conservation of natural resources has been under consideration in Congress. Two waterpower bills passed the House last year, and died in the Senate.

Senate leaders and military authorities urged the Shields bill as a vital feature of the preparedness program. It is estimated that there is 60,000,000 horsepower of natural energy in the navigable streams of the United States, of which nine-tenths is flowing to waste. These great waterpowers have been locked out of use up to now, as a special act of Congress has been necessary for each power plant, and it has been impossible to pass workable acts for the development of large waterpowers.

Senator Shields of Tennessee announced in the Senate that the passage of this bill would be followed by early development of waterpowers aggregating 15,000,000 horsepower, or a volume of electricity equal to that produced by a coal consumption of 100,000,000 tons a year. Engineers estimate that development of this amount of waterpower would equal a saving of $700,000 a day in coal bills.

It is known that a number of big electro-chemical plants for making saltpetre and nitric acid from the air have been planned by private enterprise, and will be built as soon as the Shields bill becomes a law and makes it possible to finance these undertakings. These chemicals are essential to the manufacture of explosives and agricultural fertilizers, and at present the United States is wholly dependent for its supply upon the nitrate deposits of Chile. The Chilean government collects a high tax upon every ton of nitrate exported. There is at present not a single atmospheric nitrogen plant in this country, although Europe has 1,200,000 horsepower of hydro-electricity devoted to this use, and Germany is making 500,000 tons of saltpetre a year in such establishments for military and agricultural uses.

Electrification of railroads, manufacture of iron and steel in electric furnaces, and extensive irrigation developments in the west, are among other benefits expected to be derived from the utilization of large waterpowers for generation of cheap electricity.

Under the terms of the Shields bill, the Secretary of War is authorized to grant permits for dams and power plants where he believes the building of such dams will improve navigability of streams. Dams are to be built without cost to the government, and the grantees are to provide and operate locks, gates, sluiceways, etc., all without cost to the government. Permits may be granted to individuals, political subdivisions of states, cities or other municipal corporations, or to public utility corporations. Intrastate business and rates of companies operating under the act are to be regulated by the states, and interstate service and rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

All plans for dams and works are to be approved by the War Department, as being the most adaptable plans for improvement of navigation and fullest development of waterpower possibilities. The grantee is to pay a rental for public lands used, and a charge for rights and privileges in use of water, these rentals and charges to be fixed at the discretion of the Secretary of War, and the money received from same to go into a special fund in the United States Treasury, to be used for further improvement of waterways. Actual construction work on any project is to be begun within two years of the granting of the permit, and the works are to be completed within such reasonable time as the Secretary may prescribe. For failure to complete the works as directed, or for violation of the provisions of the act or non-compliance with regulations or orders of the War Department, the grantee is subject to heavy cash penalties, or to revocation of the grant.

Permits are to be granted for fifty years, after which time the government may either extend the original lease, make a new grant, or upon one year's notice take over the property upon payment of its fair value, this value to be determined by mutual agreement, or by the Federal courts, and not to include any allowance for any rights granted by the government. The bill also provides that no value of rights granted by the government shall be allowed in fixing rates to consumers. Dams, locks and other structures used primarily for improving navigation are to be exempt from taxation.

Municipally owned dams and power plants for irrigation or for supplying power for municipal purposes, are to be given preference in making leases for surplus water powers in the streams. The bill does not apply to waterpower on small streams and creeks, used for grist mills, sawmills, etc.

The measure contains a drastic anti-monopoly clause, providing that no dam or works constructed under its provisions shall be owned, leased, controlled or operated "by any device or in any manner so that they form part of or in any way effect any combination in the form of an unlawful monopoly, or form the subject of any unlawful conspiracy or conspiracy to limit the output of electrical energy or in restraint of trade."

Although the war talk has prevented it from attracting any considerable public attention, the Shields bill has for several weeks been the subject of one of the most interesting debates on conservation of natural resources that has ever been held in the Senate. With the passage of this measure, the Senate will at once take up consideration of the Norris bill for the leasing of power sites in the public domain, which passed the House last year, and again this year, almost without opposition. A number of Senate amendments to the Norris bill, which have been approved by the Senate Committee on Public Lands, with the endorsement of Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, make its general policy along the same lines as that of the Shields bill.

TEXTILE TARIFFS IN ARGENTINA

Washington, D. C., March 9.—The great interest in South American markets for American textiles has led the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, to compile the tariffs on textiles and manufactures of textiles in all South American countries and to issue such compilations as bulletins. The first of these bulletins deals with the tariffs of Argentina and is now ready for distribution. Included in this bulletin are textiles proper, ready-made clothing, hats, table and bed linen, and all other articles mentioned in the tariff which contain important proportions of material made of vegetable fibers.

This compilation of Argentine tariffs is based on the official text of the Argentine tariff, published in 1911, and includes all subsequent changes and decisions published in the official gazette. It is not intended to enable the American exporter to calculate exactly the rates of duty to which his product may be subject in Argentina, and thus to be able to quote a duty-prepaid price to the Argentine importer. The importer is accustomed to look after the duty himself. But it is intended to give the American exporter an appropriate idea of the customs treatment of his product, so that he can determine whether or not the duty is high enough to keep him out of the market. It will also enable him to find out whether he can reduce the duty by making certain changes in the composition or form of the article that will bring it under a lower tariff classification.

A study of the bulletin reveals the fact that the Argentine tariff is rather indefinite in some respects. There is nothing for instance, in the valuation schedule itself to indicate that by water proof fabrics are meant only fabrics containing rubber, or that hat bands, in order to be admitted at a reduced rate of duty, must have a warp made entirely of cotton. As a general rule, no separate provision is made for ready-made garments for children, except in the form of a note to the effect that such garments are dutiable at one-half the rates on corresponding garments for adults.

The bulletin is entitled "Import Duties on Textiles in South America," Tariff Series No. 22. It contains 34 pages, including an introduction of four pages devoted to general instructions for studying tariff schedules, and an index. It is sold at 10 cents a copy, by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, and by the district offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a Glass of Sálís to flush out your Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys, after this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread. The water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control micturition. While it is extremely annoying, and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Sálís from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acid in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Sálís is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Sálís is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad after effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

PROSPEROUS YEAR PROMISED FOR FARMERS.

From the Government Crop Report issued at Washington on March 5, a prosperous year is promised for the New England Farmer, although some of the estimates are lower than those prices obtained in 1915. The New Hampshire estimate follows:

Corn on Farms—Estimated stocks on farms March 1 this year 218,000 bushels, compared with 174,000 a year ago and 171,000 two years ago. Price March 1 to producers 85 cents per bushel, compared with 86 cents a year ago and 80 cents two years ago.

Corn of Merchantable Quality—The percentage of the 1915 crop which was of merchantable quality is estimated at 73 per cent, compared with 75 per cent of the 1914 crop and 61 per cent of the 1913 crop.

Wheat on Farms—Estimated stocks on farms March 1 this year 114,000 bushels, compared with 100,000 a year ago and 118,000 two years ago. Price March 1 to producers 55 cents per bushel, compared with 60 cents a year ago and 67 cents two years ago.

Barley on Farms—Estimated stocks on farms March 1 this year 3,000 bushels, compared with 2,000 a year ago and 6,000 two years ago. Price March 1 to producers 55 cents per bushel, compared with 50 cents a year ago and 50 cents two years ago.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH 'DANDERINE'

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Hair gets beautiful, wavy and thick in few moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glitters with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots flinch, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or teller counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It even keeps your hair from falling out now?

PERSONALLY DECORATED BY THE KAISER

HAMBURG LABORER RECEIVES IRON CROSS BY THE EMPEROR FOR BRAVERY.

Berlin, March 9.—In the course of his last visit to the western front, Emperor William personally decorated Friedrich Meyer, a Hamburg laborer and corporal of one of the Prussian reserve regiments, with the Iron Cross of the First Class. In a letter to his former employers Meyer, who is the first man of his regiment to earn this distinction, describes the interesting event and the deed which won him the much coveted decoration as follows:

"I was lying in one of our trenches when an officer appeared and informed our commander that I was wanted at the headquarters of the General Staff. When I pointed to my dirty clothes and remonstrated that I was not in a presentable condition I was given a few minutes to wash up and put on a clean uniform. Then a big auto took me to headquarters, where I was presented to the Emperor and the Crown Prince, the Kaiser, to my astonishment, shook my hand and, calling me by name, said:

"I have heard of your bravery in the last engagement on the front of your regiment. You are a hero and I am happy to be able to award the Iron Cross of the First Class to you."

"The Crown Prince pinned the decoration to my breast and then all the generals present shook hands with me. After the ceremony I was led to a beautifully set table in a large adjoining room and there I dined with the Kaiser, the Crown Prince and the highest and most famous leaders of our army. It was the proudest day of my life."

"The deed for which I have been decorated was hardly great enough to merit such a reward. During the engagement mentioned by the Emperor a French detachment broke into our position. The Frenchmen were quickly cut off, though, and we captured them after a hand-to-hand fight in which we also lost heavily. Later I discovered that another French detachment had entered our trench a little further north. As our Lieutenant had been wounded I took command of the twenty-five men that remained of our detachment and started a counter attack. The fight was furious but we succeeded in capturing three French officers and 45 men more."

"When I delivered the prisoners at the headquarters of our regiment I was ordered by the Colonel to carry a communication to the headquarters of the brigade. This was a pretty dangerous job, as I had to cross a section of the battlefield very close to the French trenches. I started out at ten o'clock in the evening and safely reached my destination but on my return I was discovered and taken under fire by the enemy."

"Throwing myself on the ground among the hundreds of dead and wounded I kept quiet for a while and then I handed a Frenchman who was slowly bleeding to death. When I started to rise cautiously I discovered a French patrol which swiftly approached the spot where I was lying. Of course I had to act quickly. Shouting command, to deceive the enemy, I fired a dozen shots in quick succession. Two of the Frenchmen fell and the others started to flee, as they believed themselves opposed by superior German forces. After a few more shots from my rifle the men stopped and surrendered, while three others escaped. I made the prisoners hand over their pocket knives, daggers and revolvers and transported them to the headquarters of our regiment, where I arrived at one o'clock in the morning. The Colonel was at once notified of my success and arose from his bed to congratulate me."

IN MEMORIAM

An Appreciation of Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Junkins.

The sad announcement of the death of Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Junkins, wife of Dr. William O. Junkins, was heard with sincere sorrow not only in Portsmouth, her home city, but everywhere that she was known. In her death one of the most popular and lovable women of this city has entered into rest. Gentleness and kindness were marked traits of her character and her life was an exemplification of Christian living. The keynote to her character and that which made her so beloved was a broad and generous love for humanity, which embraced everyone who came within the sphere of her influence.

Her nature was hopeful and optimistic in the extreme and she had a faculty for making friends and keeping them. Many an act of kindness or charity was performed by her which the world never knew, as her kindly and generous nature compelled her to give a prompt and generous response to the call of the needy or suffering.

It was in her home that her influence was most felt and here the hospitality shown was unbounded. Friends and acquaintances were given a welcome overflowing with cordiality and to be a guest at her attractive home was always a pleasure to the visitor. Her friends were numbered by the scores and not one is there who can remember in her an unkindly act or an unworthy trait.

It is eminently fitting to quote the following well known lines which are so applicable to this noble woman: "None knew her but to love her. None named her but to praise."

During her illness all possible was done for her recovery and her death was a crushing blow to her relatives as all were so pleased to know she could return to her home from Boston this week where some weeks ago she underwent an operation.

To the deeply bereaved husband her loss is irreparable one, as the married life of the couple was one of devotion. But in his great sorrow he has the tender memories of a loving and devoted wife, whose cheerful presence, kindly acts and loving words will long be recalled. The memory of her helpful companionship will ever be pleasant and she will live in the hearts of her relatives and friends long after her name is but a memory. It is seldom that our community is called upon to mourn for the loss of one more loved and respected and her memory will long be revered.

REMARKABLE HAWAIIAN NATIONAL GUARD INCREASE.

Honolulu, Hawaii, U. S. A., March 9.—From barely 300 members to more than 6000 officers and enlisted troops, is the remarkable record of increase made in the National Guard of Hawaii within five months. The unprecedented growth of island militia is mainly due to the untiring efforts of Brig. Gen. Samuel Johnson who a short time ago was appointed by Gov. L. E. Pinkham as adjutant-general. There is a bill pending before the National Congress which is passed, will give General Johnson federal authority. By virtue of his appointment Governor Pinkham becomes a direct representative of the president of the United States over all Federal and territorial forces. Recruits for the several companies have been drawn from many races now represented in the territory. Hawaii has made the greatest advance in national guard "preparedness."

Newspaper advertising is conceded to be the best. The Portsmouth Herald reaches the people of this city and is an excellent advertising medium.

HAMPTON MAN UNCONSCIOUS IN THE SNOW

FOUND AFTER SEVERAL HOURS AT LITTLE BOAR'S HEAD BY SURFMAN FROM COAST GUARD STATION

While on patrol duty from the Wall's Sands Coast Guard Station on Thursday morning after the heavy snow storm, Surfman Joseph Fernald discovered Arthur Cullum, aged 40 years, lying in an unconscious condition in the snow at Little Boar's Head. Life was removed to the Coast Guard Station in a wagon, and Dr. H. A. White of Jenness Beach was called to attend him. Cullum was in an exhausted condition due from his long exposure and was kept at the station until 5:00 o'clock in the evening when he was returned to his home, still under the care of the physician.

It was learned that Cullum left this city on the car leaving here at 10:05 in the evening and on its arrival at Cable Road, Rye, he started to walk the remainder of the way to Hampton Beach, a distance of nine miles. At midnight he was met by one of the patrol of the Rye Beach Station, who asked him if he did not want to go to the station, but he said he thought he could make his way home. Some hours later he was found by Surfman Fernald completely exhausted and unconscious in the snow. In the opinion of the physician the finding of Cullum by the surfman saved his life, as death would have followed in a short time had he been exposed to the cold for a very long period. Although in a very weak condition when he started for home it is thought that he will recover.

IT'S YOUR LIVER! YOU'RE BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK.

Don't stay constipated with breath bad, stomach sour or a cold.

Enjoy life! Live your liver and bowels tonight and feel fine.

To-night! Sure! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug-store now? Eat one or two to-night and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or bother you all the next day like calomel, salts and pills. They act gently but thoroughly. Mothers should give their children Cascarets any time. They are harmless and children love them.

FAST DAY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire still clings to an official Fast day. It is one of the institutions of the state, and she views with alarm any attempt to abolish it for a whole modern substitute.

Fast day this year would have fallen, in the natural order of events, on Thursday in Holy Week. Unenlightened citizens of other states may reason that a day of fasting and prayer could not be observed more appropriately than in Holy Week. But they are mistaken.

It has been decided that Fast day will have to go over for another week. Public sentiment, as public sentiment is interpreted by public officials, demands it. And it is solemnly explained that, if Fast day should be observed on Thursday of Holy Week, a large number of those who observe Holy Week could not enter into the "sports and pastimes of Fast day."

That is all. But one is inclined to wonder whether New Hampshire has actually forgotten why Fast day was set apart and whether she is losing her sense of humor.—Boston Traveler.

Isn't it possible that New Hampshire has not forgotten why Fast day was instituted, but that people's ideas may have changed since it was instituted? Time and people change many customs. If the histories are to be believed the inauguration of Thanksgiving Day occurred in Nov. 1621, in Massachusetts, but it was not then the custom to play annual football games as is done now in Boston, Mass.

It is also quite probable that Fast day will be abolished in New Hampshire by the next legislature, an effort failing last spring. The celebration of every holiday has changed much with the passing years, and perhaps New Hampshire may be among those which will do away with holidays that have passed their usefulness, or have departed from the idea for which they were set apart.

BREEDING CHESTNUTS FOR DISEASE CONTROL.

(Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

How to checkmate the new chestnut blight or bark disease that is causing such vast destruction is a problem, of no small importance. From its obscure beginnings in Eastern New York about twelve years ago, it has swept into fifteen states, and now attacks about all of the northern half of our native chestnut stands, doing damage estimated at close upon $5,000,000. It attacks the trees in twig, branch and trunk, causing death in a year or two, and soon recurs in the sprouts or suckers sent up from the still living roots. No native chestnut appears to be spared in the long run, but the little Eastern bush chinquapin, with its smoother bark and comparative freedom from insect enemies, appears less readily attacked. The European chestnut in its favorite varieties, is also subject to the disease, but when we come to the chestnuts of Japan and China we find very great resistance, amounting in some varieties to almost practical immunity. There appears to be now no method of controlling this disease, which is caused by a fungus whose spores are carried about by birds and insects, creating new infections wherever they reach the sap wood or inner bark of the chestnut tree. There is no apparent diminution of its virulence since it came under observation.

The most obvious means of replacing the great losses of chestnut timber and nuts would seem to be in the substitution for our native forms the Asiatic species that best resist the disease, having evidently for ages been accustomed to its presence, and also to breed the chestnut as a valuable genus of forest trees, by hybridization and selection for the avowed production of varieties better adapted for our purposes.

Some chestnut breeding has already been accomplished in various parts of our country, and generally with good results. A promising experiment of this character has been under the direction of the Office of Forest Pathology of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for several years.

Hybrids between the highly resistant Japan chestnut and our native chinquapin have been raised in considerable numbers, quickly forming handsome dwarf trees, bearing at an early age profuse crops of nuts of excellent quality, five or six times the size of those of the wild chinquapin parent, and ripening weeks before any other chestnuts. So far these trees show a very high degree of disease resistance. The second generation of hybrids, grown from self or chance pollinated nuts, appear quite as good as their parents, which is an important feature when the cost of propagation of nut trees by budding and grafting is considered. Another line of breeding lies in the inter-crossing of disease-resistant Japan and Chinese varieties that are rapidly being imported into this country by the Office of Foreign Seed and Plant Introduction, and selection of the best resulting forms.

Four generations of cross-bred Japan chestnuts of a very early-bearing type producing nuts when two or three years old, have already been grown, and the varietal characters appear to be well fixed. Some of the Chinese chestnuts are said to grow nearly 100 feet high in their home forests, and it may be possible by their use to replace in some measure our vanishing native chestnut stands, and perhaps develop very superior varieties during the process of acclimatization.

The hybrid chinquapins and cross-bred chestnuts referred to in this article are not yet available for distribution to the public for testing, since they are being held for further observations as to their varietal characters and the degree of disease resistance.

TACT AND A SPEECH.

Why Diederich Changed His Mind About Speaking in French.

In Lord Redesdale's "Memoirs" there are some stories of Lord Beaconsfield. The following is particularly characteristic:

"There was one amusing incident in connection with the Berlin congress. One day it was announced that on the morrow Lord Beaconsfield was to address the assembled statesmen, and that he would speak in French. Lord Odo Russell, who was a master of tongues, heard this with no little alarm, for it was well-known that Lord Beaconsfield's French was very much of the 'Stratford-atte-Bowe' type. Lord Odo, always clever, went to him and adroitly turned the conversation on to the next day's conference. Lord Beaconsfield announced his intention of speaking.

"In what language do you propose to speak?" asked Lord Odo.
"In French," was the answer.
"I am afraid that that will be a very great disappointment to the colleagues," said Lord Odo. "You see, they know that they have here in you the greatest living master of English oratory, and of course they are longing to hear you. The great man smiled his pleasure, and the speech was delivered in English. Lord Odo was wont to declare that he never knew whether Lord Beaconsfield took the hint or accepted the compliment."

The Measure.
The ancient judge sat before the scales of worth.

"Bring forth the royal treasure," he cried, and the hurrying slaves poured into the huge pans sacks of golden meal, caskets of sparkling gems until it seemed as if all the wealth of earth were there. Yet the balance never stirred.

"Let the learning of the ages be added," came the order, and tons upon tons of the wisdom of sages, philosophers, scientists and poets was heaped upon the pile. And still the great arm of the scales remained high in air.
"Add now the men of power and high position," said the judge, "and the scale will fall." But all in vain.
"But what is on the other side that outweighs all these?" asked one.
"It is character," said the judge.

Walter Was Puzzled.
This is a true story: Little Walter, whose father is a professor in a middle west university, was scrutinizing his parents closely and said: "Father, you have such heavy eyebrows, and mother has hardly any. What are eyebrows for?" The father replied: "Impromptu." "Why, eyebrows are—or—eyebrows are to keep the perspiration from getting into people's eyes when they work hard." But, father, protested Walter, "I don't see how that can be, for mother's would need to be many times heavier than yours." And father was lost in thought.—Christian Register.

Over the Mark.
"Does he aim at realism in the stories he writes?"
"He may aim at it, but he doesn't hit within a million miles of it."
"How's that?"
"The hero of his last story is a 'spend-thrift Scotchman.'—Houston Post.

The Herald is the favorite newspaper.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., March 9.—Student after student hurrying through the lower corridor of Thompson Hall on the way to classes this morning stopped and picked up a stamped and addressed envelope which lay on the floor. The victims found the address to read: "Buy a Granite!"

The letter is the latest step in a curious campaign of "psychological advertising" being carried on by Roy Graham of Candia who is business manager of the year book "The Granite" published by the Junior class. Two days ago victim after victim picked up a lost pocketbook. An examination showed its contents to consist of one card bearing the legend "Do it now! Buy a Granite!" The bulletin boards have been covered with gaily colored posters each day and even in chapel the undergraduate's attention has been directed by the necessity of passing on a neatly wrapped brick, bearing in bold letters some suggestion as to the purchasing of a Granite.

The manager declares he has just had from the library and read with care, a volume entitled "The Psychology of Advertising" and that he is now applying the theories of the writer. The Granite will not appear until April, but several hundred subscriptions have already been received.

Durham, March 9.—Dr. A. E. Richards of the department of English has assigned parts and set a date for the performances of scenes from Shakespeare which are to be part of the observance here of the Shakespeare Tercentenary. The scenes which have been selected from half a dozen plays it is now announced will be given the evening of April 26 in the college gymnasium, and there will be Shakespearean music by the college orchestra.

Among those who will have leading parts are: Ernest L. Bell of Plymouth who will be the Falstaff; Miss Eleanor Currier of Lochmere, who will be the Katherine of "Taming of the Shrew"; Miss Erma Lary of Berlin, who will be Rosalind, and Miss Marguerite Merrill of Franklin, who will be Portia.

Miss Elizabeth Rollins, who has charge of physical culture for women, is training a group of 100 students in Morris dances which will be given at the same time.

Professor E. R. Groves, dean of the Arts and Science faculty, and professor of sociology has just completed a book "Outlines of Rural Sociology" which will be published in August by a New York house.

Professor Groves is one of the authorities in this country on rural sociology and the book is something which will be of greatest value to all interested in, or engaged in solving, present-day problems of rural communities. There has been a nationwide demand for Professor Groves' "Bibliography of Rural Sociology," which was issued by the college as a bulletin.

SYD CHAPLIN IN "A SUBMARINE PIRATE"

A Triangle-Keystone Comedy in four reels. Displaying splendid intimate views of Uncle Sam's under-sea boats. The government, in fact, co-operated with the Triangle Corporation in the production of this comedy. In response to a special request Secretary Daniels of the Navy issued a regular department order detaching a submarine from the Pacific Coast flotilla and assigning it to motion picture duty under Mack Sennett. The appeal of a submarine story, increased by the efficiency reached by the submarines in European warfare, is well-nigh universal. Every one should see "A Submarine Pirate."
